Re: 1st Newsletter

USE NEWSLETTER WITH YOUR STUDENTS
We are trying something new – putting the newsletter in email form. Please tell us what you think! We want to make the newsletter useful and user friendly. The Creek Connections Newsletter is a quarterly publication by and for Creek Connections for you to use with your students. Please take advantage of this resource and encourage your students to read them. Reading the newsletter might inspire some research topic ideas or encourage students to learn more about creek topics on their own or on the web. You can access current and past issues at our website at https://sites.allegheny.edu/creekconnections/about-us-2/newsletters/.

GET PUBLISHED!
The more submissions we get from you and your students, the better the newsletter can serve as a forum of discussion and a venue for the exchange of ideas and learning experiences among participating schools. Please have your students write reports of sampling outings, poems, songs, limericks, word searches, cross words puzzles and games or draw their impressions of their field studies. Questions are also welcome as responses could be published in the newsletter. These assignments could be for a grade, or extra credit or just fun. You could even encourage your colleagues in other departments (e.g., English, art, etc.) to give similar assignments relevant to their subject. In subsequent issues, we’d like to have the majority of the newsletter be by Creek students. Submissions can be sent to Creek Connections via email, or mail. Your comments on additional content you’d like to see in subsequent issues are also welcome.

NEWSLETTER AUDIENCE
Who receives this newsletter? Not just you and your students, but many others do as well: your school administrators, our project funders, Allegheny College staff, environmental groups, government agencies, and other interested teachers. Feel free to pass along the newsletter to whomever you like. Even though a diverse crowd receives the newsletter, it is primarily written for your students and contains information pertinent to their watershed education endeavors.

SEND PICTURES
Send some of the images you are capturing at your field site or in the classroom. We would love to use them for the newsletter and for other project purposes. Many images submitted will not be placed on our website unless parental consent is given for the students in the picture.

SUBMIT WORLD WATER MONITORING DAY (WWMD) DATA
World Water Monitoring Day data collection goes through the end of this year. Any data you submit to us till December 31st will be submitted to the WWMD group. You do not need to submit anything separately or register on the site.
CREEK CAMP IS NOW FRESHWATER ACADEMY
Freshwater Academy is the new name, but we are keeping everything else the same! Things are busy at Allegheny College now in the summer so we are still finding dates for 2020. We continue to accept high schoolers from anywhere to immerse themselves in the French Creek watershed to explore the unique ecology as well as environmental careers.

SAMPLING DATES
Please send Wendy & Laura your sampling schedules for the year if you’d like Creek Connections staff to assist you on any of your outings. You can also contact us via email or telephone (814.332.5351) to request Creek staff help.

MODULES
Find up-to-date availability calendars for each module online. Please check the calendar before reserving. When you are repacking the module in preparation for its return to Creek Connections, please be sure to inventory the module using the Module Contents sheet in the front pocket of the module binder (and also available online). This will ensure that you are returning all components of the module. Our goal is to deliver complete modules each time a school requests to use one; however, we need your help!

NEW CREEK CONNECTIONS STAFF
Creek Connections welcomes to the staff Allegheny College students: Kinsley Greenlaw and Eva Kerr, both from Fredericksburg, Virginia. Laura has James Stupar and Jakob Radovic returning and joined by Molly Gilleland and Brinnah Porada to assist her and is gathering additional student assistants from Robert Morris University and University of Pittsburgh. All have already been out working with students and look forward to getting out more!

DATA SUBMISSIONS
We’ll take data any way you can submit it but prefer electronic submissions from the link on our website. Have your students do the entry to give them another chance to think about the values.

STUDENT BEFORE PROJECT EVALUATIONS
Please have your students complete our student BEFORE project evaluation. The link is found on our website under Current in the Creek on the bottom right side of the home page. If you need paper copies, we can mail them to you. Thank you for your help with this! It’s important for our future funding.

SYMPOSIUM
Start planning now! You are invited to choose the date and location that work best for you and your students. Friday, April 3rd at YMCA Camp Kon-O-Kwee or Friday, April 17th at Allegheny College.

THANK YOU
We appreciate all the schools that have been eager to use the Creek Connections staff assistance during the start of this school year. Our college students are thrilled to be working with you and gaining valuable experience in the classroom and field. Let us know how we can help as the year continues.
